INTENDED FOR RELEASE:
06/09/2021

UNDER EMBARGO UNTIL 5PM AUSTRALIAN EASTERN STANDARD TIME, September 6, 2021

JBL Quantum named the official sponsor of RL Oceania.

Melbourne, Australia: RL Oceania and JBL today announced their new year-long sponsorship to make the leading audio brand an official partner of all events under RLO.

“To have JBL as our newest sponsor, says a lot about the continued growth of RL Oceania and the Oceanic Rocket League community. We look forward to our future achievements alongside JBL.” says Benjamin “Dover” O’Connor, Managing Director at RL Oceania.

The partnership introduces new broadcast integrations for the region, including the JBL Quantum Player of the Day.

RLO will also be working on new social media content with the brand as well as web content such as the RLO Power Rankings.

JBL will be working closely with RLO to provide further opportunities for the Rocket League Oceanic community, supporting future events, including the recently announced new season of The Gauntlet. This also includes allowing followers to have a chance to win their own JBL gear!

JBL and RL Oceania look forward to the many exciting ways we can grow the future of Oceanic Rocket League Esports.

About RL Oceania: RL Oceania is a community based organisation that provides weekly events and services to the Oceanic Rocket League community. RL Oceania has hosted and/or serviced some of the most prestigious events in the game title's history, including the RLO Grand Slam, the largest open event in the region under the category of "Open Tournaments", RLCS X Major Broadcast's, Rocket League Spring Series, Anzac Invitational and more. One of these recent projects being the RLO Masters, a six month monthly tournament circuit sponsored by the publisher's Psyonix and Epic Games.
